

Traditional Text Line of the Bible Compared to the Alexandrian Text Line

What is this chart saying? It says that if the Bible version you use is one of the popular modern English translations such as ASV, RSV, NIV, ESV, etc., you are reading a corrupt translation with many omissions and errors that originated from the Roman Catholic Church!

If you don't like 17th-century KJV English, why not try the American King James Version (AKJV)? It is a simple word-for-word update from King James English. And it's free to copy in its entirety because it's in the public domain! See: <http://studybible.info/version/AKJV>

For more information, please see: Where are God's actual Words written? by Dr. John G. Hartnett.