

How Catholicism Uses Communism And Fascism to Control the Masses

This is a talk by Brian Denlinger of King James Video Ministries. I transcribed 13 minutes of it from his YouTube video. If this topic interests you, you can listen to his entire talk from the YouTube below the text.

Today I'd like to talk to you about how Roman Catholicism uses both the systems of Fascism and Communism to control the masses. A lot of people think that these two systems are contrary the one to the other, and they on paper seem to be, but if you actually look at it you realize that it's actually controlled by the same system. And I will be proving that today.

If you're familiar with this symbol right here, the symbol of the cross which the Catholics are very much into doing, and you have to remember that Jesus Christ was not crucified on a Christian cross. He was crucified by pagan Romans on a pagan cross.

Okay, that's very important. Now there are Christians out there that will have a cross in their home or they'll make a little wooden cross or whatever else, I've had been contacted many times by people saying, "should I have a cross in my home?" Well, if you're having it as some kind of a satanic symbol or something, well then, no, but if it's just there as a reminder what Jesus died that Jesus died on the cross and that you're as His disciple you're to take up your cross daily and follow Him, you're to crucify your flesh, okay, fine. If it's not an idol, then okay, not a problem. But the Roman Catholic Church is not some kind of another denomination, another kind of church, they are a world government power, the Roman empire, the two legs of iron in the book of Daniel, they never went away. Gold became silver, silver became brass, brass became iron, and then after that iron became iron and miry clay. It didn't go away like the other kingdoms did. We are not waiting for the fifth kingdom, in the book of Daniel the five kingdoms that are prophesied that Nebuchadnezzar has the dream and then Daniel interprets the dream. You can study that. We're not waiting for the fifth kingdom (the iron mixed with clay), we are in the fifth kingdom! There's no break there. It doesn't say, well. the Roman empire crumbles and just dissolves and then thousands of years go by and the fifth kingdom shows up. No, the fifth kingdom, we're in it. Don't let prophecy teachers mess you up on that that there's going to be a fifth kingdom someday. Oh no no, it's here right now. It has been since the basically the fourth century or so when the Roman empire became the two separate parts of the kingdom and then became the Catholic Church.

(Note from the Webmaster: Brian is referring to Daniel 2:40-43. He calls the iron mixed with miry clay the “fifth kingdom” but the Bible doesn’t call it that. It’s part of the fourth kingdom. I believe it’s more reasonable to say the kingdom of iron and clay began with the Protestant Reformation when the nations of northern Europe stopped submitting to the Pope.)

Daniel 2:40 And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron: forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces and subdueth all things: and as iron that breaketh all these, shall it break in pieces and bruise.

41 And whereas thou sawest the feet and toes, part of potters’ clay, and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron, forasmuch as thou sawest the iron mixed with miry clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest iron mixed with miry clay, they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not cleave one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay.

They have been using this system for centuries. It’s very important to understand this. And again if you study anything about Catholicism they teach that they have spiritual and temporal power symbolized by two swords. They also have two keys which they get into the thing of the keys of death and hell and heaven and whatever else, but they believe that the Pope in Rome believes he has power over all religion and also over all governments spiritual and temporal.

Emblem of the Holy See – the temporal power of the Roman Catholic Church

Now I'm going to show you how the whole system breaks down as we continue here. We're going to start out first with Communism symbolized here by the purple. Again the colors of Mystery Babylon is purple and scarlet. So we'll start out here with the spiritual with Communism. How does Roman Catholicism use Communism? How do they employ it out there with the masses? Well, first of all, they use monastic orders. You're a Catholic, you're a faithful Catholic, and you want to serve the Church. What do you do? Well, you can apply for being a monk, a Franciscan friar, a Dominican, there's different types of Augustinian, there's different types of monastic orders that you can go in. If you're a woman you can join a convent, become a nun.

The Jesuits are another one of the monastic orders, they're the military sort of the scheming and whatever else type of a monastic order. Early on though they would fall under this whole thing. There are people that are Jesuit trained and they get out there and they have a basically a secular life. they're not living at some kind of a monastery or whatever else and whatever.

But when you first go into this monastic orders you have to do certain things. You say like what? Take certain vows, vows of chastity. You don't go out and fornicate and whatever else, a vow of poverty, you give up whatever money you have to enter into that order. A vow of obedience, you will do what your superiors tell you to do. Those are the main ones. And that's what they do.

Well, what is that? It's communal living, Communism. Think about it. You have some guy that was raised in a trailer park and he doesn't have two nickels to rub together and you have some guy that was raised in some wall street banker was his father and he's got all kinds of money and everything else they both want to join a monastic order. Guess what? They're coming in at the same level. They are. They're going to have to give up their money, they're going to have to give up their ambitions and whatever else, and they will have to submit to their rules and the authority of it. That's what they do. It's Communism. And think about what else they do. They all wear the same uniform, they all live together, they all eat together, they'll make the same pay. You see? You say that sounds kind of like something else, doesn't it? Well, I don't know like ...the military? Hmm you see what well there are generals, yeah I know, and they're high-level Jesuits and there's others and whatever else that they get away from that early monastic type of system, but when you enter into it what do you have? Uniform!

They even cut your hair the same. Communal living. You all live at the barracks there. And you're under orders. Sounds kind of like up here (points to monastic orders on the chart) doesn't it? And what are these people doing? They're there for the service of the Church, aren't they? What are these people (points to the military soldiers section of the chart) doing? Hey, I just want to thank you for your service to God and country. (Sarcasm) Who is their God? God and country? You know what I mean? Spiritual, temporal? Hmm. I mean "I'm joining the military to serve God and country!" What are you going to do? Pass out Gospel tracts? Go out and preach the gospel? You're going to print bibles and give them out? No. How are you serving God when you join the military? "We're going to go fight police action in foreign countries and beat down Communism. We're going to beat Communism by practicing Communism."

(Laughs)Yeah. Think. I mean knock a few times and if nobody answers up there you might want to...

Socialism. "Capitalism is so bad and it's just so terrible and there's monopolizing and whatever else and these these capitalists are so greedy and whatever else." Well yeah, there's some of that stuff over here on the Fascist side, but that doesn't mean that people shouldn't be able to make money on their own and shouldn't be able to have their own business and shouldn't be able to take care of their own life. But see, the Socialist comes along and they say, "The workers need to unite. Let's come together. The workers unite. We have the hammer and sickle down here. See the sickle, the farmer, the hammer, the factory worker. Let's let's unite. Let's come together. Let's have a social Socialist country where we all work in factories." You say, "Well yeah but the farmers, farmers aren't working in factories, got you there, Brian." Well, if you understand what big agriculture is, it's essentially a factory.

Well, I'm a vegetarian I don't go with the the factories where they put in these cows and they milk them with machines and just herding hundreds of them through there and they just milk them until the cow drops dead, taking far more out of them than their bodies can barely even handle. And so I'm a vegetarian. "What about your vegetables? What about the fruits that come from Central America?" I've seen the banana plantations in person, Dole and Chiquita run down in Honduras and Costa Rica. I was there. I've seen how it's an oligarchy down there, and they pay the people just barely any money. I've seen it. I've seen the pineapples and the bananas and the big plantations and things. Yeah, don't tell me it's not a factory. A factory doesn't have to have four walls. It can have four borders of a field too, if I can say it that way. Factory workers, you're out there sitting at the sewing machine making the Communist Chinese ... again communist. See? China. Who do you think set that up? I won't won't tell you, you just have to figure it out on your own. But they're in there in the factories they've got the women working at the sewing machines just sewing shirts for the capitalists over here and the Fascists. And we're going to make the little toys that we can sell at Walmart and whatever else. "Well yeah, I can see that that's Communism, but not the fields!" Oh you mean the people that are out there bent over in the hot sun and they're they're working in the fields working in the heat, getting things for the global market?

How about universal basic income? There are people that are calling for that right now! "Hey, we can't work anymore because of the baloney virus and it's kind of killed but not really killed but sort of killed a lot of people so we have to shut down the economy and people couldn't pay their rent and they couldn't pay their mortgages so we need to have universal basic income! We shouldn't have to pay for our housing anymore! That's bad! We shouldn't have to pay rent or mortgage! That's a terrible thing! Common housing? Hmm! "Oh, it's brand new. This pandemic has caused some new things!" No it hasn't! No it hasn't! They're just trying to bring in Communism through Socialism.

"Why would you be against these things?! There's people that are hurting! A lot of people died! There's people that might be out on the streets unless we do something to step in and make it that they don't have to work anymore!

Social justice! We need social justice! This is wrong! This Fascist system over here with the capitalism and everything else they've come in and they charge too much for rent and they charge the housing prices are inflated and and there's all this money out there and debt and everything else and we need to get rid of that and just make everybody live the same!" You see how it works? So there's this system, Communism, the left arm of the cross of Catholicism.

Now let's talk about the right wing. You say well, what's the symbol of Fascism? The symbol of Fascism is the Swastika. No. Actually, if you study what the Swastika is, it was an ancient sort of an Indian Hindu type of a symbol for good luck, essentially. That's all it is.

Swastika on a statue of Buddha.

The Nazis just took it. The Nazis did some really weird bizarre stuff and they took a lot of things from the Orient and from kind of like the Tibet area and whatever else and they took some Hinduism and the Nazis were Occultists. They were Occultists and they controlled through occult means and whatever else just like people do today in a lot of these governments. The symbol for Fascism is right there, a Fasces, a Roman Fasces, an axe that's controlling all the little sticks that are bound together. We're all in this together. Do you ever hear that one? Yeah Fasces.

And you say, "Well I think I've seen that before!" Well if you look at an old mercury dime here in America it was on the back of the mercury dime, a Roman Fasces.
