

Technology Used to Deceive the World: Project Blue Beam

Watch even half of this 10 minute clip and you may avoid being deceived by the fantastic light show soon to appear in the sky over YOU!

The researcher of Project Blue Beam is Serge Monast, an investigative journalist from Quebec Canada. His article appears on <http://educate-yourself.org/cn/projectbluebeam25jul05.shtml>

I just read an article by blogger Christopher Knowles on blogspot.com claiming that Serge Monast's Project Blue Beam was given to him by disinfo spooks! According to Knowles,

So in conclusion, all of the major claims made by Monast concerning "Project Blue Beam" have direct and well-documented antecedents in Star Trek, dating back to 1976. (from <http://secretsun.blogspot.jp/2010/11/project-blue-beam-exposed.html>)

But I say, so what? The creator of Star Trek, Gene Roddenberry, was a 33rd Degree Scottish-Rite Freemason. He therefore may have been an insider to Illuminati plans. George Orwell who wrote "1984" and "Animal Farm", was also an insider to Illuminati plans. The same with Ayn Rand who wrote Atlas Shrugged. Aldous Huxley who wrote Brave New World was a Freemason. Is it any wonder the writings of these people are considered prophetic and insightful? It's not that they had any special spiritual gifts to see the future, it's because they were forecasting the devices of the Antichrist! (Daniel 11:24) They had inside knowledge of the Devil's plans.

Just because Serge Monast's Project Blue Beam has many similarities to scenes from Gene Roddenberry's Star Trek episodes doesn't make it false or disinformation. If you don't agree, ask yourself what could have been the motivation behind Project Blue Beam disinformation. I'm inclined to think it would be safer to believe it than doubt it.
