

Photos of U.S. Presidents meeting the Pope

The first papal visit to America. Lyndon B. Johnson meets Pope Paul VI in New York City, on October 4, 1965.

I was inspired to make this page after reading Vatican take over of America officially April 16 2008 which was sent to me by my new friend, Walt Stickel of <http://granddesignexposed.com/>

Do you notice what is common with everybody meeting the Pope in these photos? They are all wearing black! Quote from the article:

...wear BLACK in compliance with Vatican protocol. Black is required as a sign of submission, penance, worship, and subservience

Richard Nixon meets Pope Paul VI in Vatican City.

Gerald Ford and Henry Kissinger meet Pope Paul VI in Vatican City.

Jimmy Carter meets Pope John Paul II on October 6, 1979 in the White House. First visit to the White House by a reigning Pope.

Ronald Reagan meets Pope John Paul II in Fairbanks, Alaska on May 2, 1984

President George H.W. Bush with Pope John Paul II in the papal library at the Vatican on May 27, 1989,

Bill Clinton with Pope John Paul II

George W. Bush with Pope John Paul II in Vatican City.

George W. Bush and his wife greet Pope Benedict XVI

Barack Obama with Pope Benedict XVI

Interestingly, there are photos of Ronald Reagan wearing brown when meeting the Pope. I wonder if Reagan was trying to tell him something.