

An Excellent Resource that Debunks Evolution

My good friend Jim Gibson sent me his book, An Appeal to Reason. It's a great read about examining the evidence of origins in the evolution versus creation debate.

Some of the topics:

- The complexity of living systems
- The testimony embedded within the fossil record
- The historical and cultural proofs of man and dinosaurs as being contemporaries
- The fallacies inherent in the interpretation of radiometric dating
- The complete shambles of supposed human evolution
- The faith-science required by the big bang.
